OVERHEARD REMARK TURNED INTO CASH

Gives Railroaders Idea That Gets Results.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO Calif — A couple of railroad engineers, George McCormick and Frank Russell, sauntered through the Southern Pacific's West Oakland laundry a few years ago and overheard a conversation about water softening to save soap

They got an idea right there that helped the railroad set a new record in fuel efficiency

It came out the other day when the road's statisticians figured the company hauled 10.31 tons of freight a mile for every pound of fuel in 1939 just about twice as many tons hauled as 20 years ago

The remark was that the water-softening stuff saved more on the linen washed than on the soap

The two engineers superintended locomotive boilers for linen... tried the water-softener... the deposit in boiler pipes interferes with heating... worked.

McCormick is now a superintendent of motive... and Russell is mechanical engineer

Dynamite, Quarry Swimmers, Keep Deputies Busy

Dynamite and swimming occupied the attention of Sheriff's Deputies Gene Geissler and W H Willis yesterday afternoon

The dynamite three or four sticks of about half strength is believed to have been taken from a shed on the property of the Marion Stone Co No clue as to its whereabouts has been found yet officials said

The swimmers were young people who had sought relief from the heat in the sand pit of the Marion Sand and Gravel Co and the quarry of the stone company Both places are posted forbidding swimming more for the protection of the swimmers than as anything else

At the quarry particularly is swimming dangerous the deputies reported There are electrical lines nearby creating a hazard In addition the company s trucks are going in and out of the property making it a dangerous place for children

At first report it was said that some of the swimmers had been bathing in the nude but no evidence of this was found when the deputies arrived

Fair Board Schedules New Exhibits and Improvement Work on Grounds

Conservation and Wildlife Exhibit, Also One by New CCC Camp, To Be Shown This Year.

Arrangements for two elaborate conservation exhibits at the Marion county fair Aug 20-23 and plans for improvements at the grounds were announced today by J W Hungate fair secretary following a recent meeting of the fair board

One of the exhibits will be a conservation and wildlife display in charge of O H Nelmeyer of Prospect, deputy state game protector for Marion county Mr Nelmeyer was given permission to establish a permanent display section on the grounds along the southeast portion of the vegetable and grange exhibit hall He plans to erect barricades, fences and other devices for showing wildlife and also plans to plant various kinds of trees and shrubs to give the display area a natural setting for the animals and birds to be shown Mr Hungate said An area approximately 50 by 75 feet is to be used for the exhibit and the flowers and other plantings in the area will remain at the grounds permanently

CCC Exhibit

The second conservation exhibit will be in charge of Marion county s new CCC camp which will maintain a display in the vegetable and grange hall to give fair goers some idea of the type of work being done by camp workers in Marion county Members of the camp personnel will be stationed at the exhibit during the fair

Two improvements at the grounds have been authorized by the board One is installation of a new transformer and some cable to improve the electric power and light facilities on the grounds and to increase efficiency of the public address system used during the fair The board let a contract to the Marion Reserve Power Co for this improvement to cost slightly more than $100

Another improvement authorized is installation of heavy wire netting to replace windows that have been broken out of rest rooms under the grandstand since last years fair Vandals had broken out all of the windows with stones and the board decided on netting rather than glass to replace them Mr Hungate said

Pet Limit on Politics

The board voted to prohibit political organizations of any kind to maintain headquarters on the grounds during the fair Criticism that developed following the opening of a campaign tent at a previous fair was given as the reason for this ruling The ruling will not interfere with individual campaigning on the grounds, Mr Hungate said

Fair officials are preparing to start taking entries. The officially designated period for filing entries is from Wednesday Aug 14 to Saturday Aug 17 at 10 p m at the board s office on South Main street

The fair board s executive committee will meet Saturday night to attend to further fair details and arrangements will be made for another meeting of the full board before the fair opens.

GUARD AGAINST GYPS AT FAIRS

Inspectors Soon Spot Phonies Among Entertainment Concessionaires.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 24—The busy season is beginning for a dozen state inspectors who match wits with any county or independent fair concessionaire whose policy is: "Never give a sucker an even break."

From now until Oct. 18, when the last of Ohio's 92 fairs closes, these agents will visit fairgrounds, license honest concessions and blacklist others.

They'll find such things as a 20-pound iron milk bottle which doesn't tumble when hit by a baseball; penny-pitch boards wired so that current draws coins onto graphite-painted lines; bingo games where a "capper," or operator's man, signals for and gets the number he needs to win.

George F. Kryder, chief of the foods and dairies division of the department of agriculture, explained that his inspectors "aren't trying to make fairs into glorified Sunday schools," but "do want the 2,000,000 Ohioans expected to attend fairs this summer to have honest amusement."

Added this year to more than 50 banned amusements at Ohio fairs are guess-your-age games, medicine shows, and "conservation exhibits."

Age guessing was ruled out, Kryder said, because those who operated the games in a score of fairs last year catered largely to school children, where they had an unfair advantage because of a three-year estimate leeway.

Medicine shows and sale of so-called health foods victimized persons whom barkers picked from their audience as unhealthy looking, Kryder asserted. Valueless remedies were sold with the aid of impressive physiological charts and medical terminology.

"Conservation" exhibits, according to Kryder, are usually operated by out-of-state men and purported to be a part of the state program. Last year in more than half Ohio's fairs, he said, persons were attracted into these "free" displays of a few stuffed birds, a tame coyote, a few fish, and many posters, and sold subscriptions to magazines which they never received or were coerced into making contributions "to protect our wildlife."

MISS SYBILLA YAMBERT DIES AT SYCAMORE HOME

SYCAMORE, O., July 25—Miss Sybilla Jane Yambert, 87, a resident of McCutchenville until two years ago when she came to live with her niece, Mrs. Lewis Schwartz of Sycamore, died last night at the Schwartz home of infirmities of age. She was a native of Seneca county. The funeral services will be conducted Friday at 1:30 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 at the Evangelical and Reformed church at McCutchenville. Burial will be made in the South Bend cemetery near McCutchenville.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Call of "Open Road"

Is there any advantage in a vacation at a resort for mineral springs or can't you do as much good "taking to the great open spaces"?

Spa treatment seems to have more or less gone out of fashion and undeservedly so. It used to be the regular thing for the family to vacation at the springs—now the regular thing is to get in the automobile and ride, ride, ride.

It certainly can be said, in general, that the ride-ride-ride vacation is best suited to young and vigorous members of the family. It's likely to make the older ones need a little time to rest to recover from their vacation. They can have a good, restful, healthy spell at the springs though.

When you get down to analyze the good that mineral springs do, you must acknowledge that the routine life imposed on you at a spa is of more value than the waters. All good spas now have arrangements for baths, dietary regulation, exercise and massage and competent medical consultation is available to outline a proper daily routine.

This treatment is of value in chronic disabling conditions including those affecting the heart and circulation, rheumatism, digestive-chronic stomach, intestinal and gallbladder conditions, nervous and, occasionally, skin troubles.

Different mineral waters are of value because of their alkaline properties, salts of calcium or phosphate, mild laxative properties, iron content or natural heat. Whether the minute amounts of radium some of them contain do any good is doubtful.

Water as a cathartic

In thinking of natural cathartics we stress the value of roughage foods and give no attention to the classic of plain, good old-fashioned water.

Water—six to eight glasses a day more in summer time—is necessary for the maintenance of the equilibrium of the body. As a cathartics it initiates the peristaltic movements of the intestine gently and naturally. Water immediately leaves the stomach and as soon as it reaches the intestine it stimulates the intestinal muscle to movement.

This is the reason for the good effect of a glass or two of hot water drunk in the early morning before breakfast. They should be taken slowly while dressing.

"The Die Is Cast"

WHETHER or not a German spokesman said it, The die is cast. Great Britain and Germany are going to fight their Armageddon.

Whichever wins if either can win, the result will be to elevate a new and mightier power than ever existed before—the United States. It is the one party concerned in the Battle of Britain which is not going to lose.

While the two major powers of Europe fight for the right to reorganize the old world the major power of the new world is going to prepare itself for the responsibility of international leadership which European hates and jealousies finally have sent into exile across the Atlantic ocean.

In the last analysis the only genuinely important thing about the new isms which have exploded in the minds of Europeans is their common emphasis on organization. They all represent attempts under the compulsion of desperation to realize the full potentialities of states by organizing everything in them from the top to the bottom by controlling the lives of their citizens by making everything an instrumentality of the state.

Because a society organized so highly that individual initiative is repressed is unnatural and cannot survive except by compulsion it becomes a fetish to create other unnatural societies elsewhere to provide a friendly background. Thus the United States is eyed hungrily by all three of the old world organizing societies—the Communists Nazis and Fascists—because they recognize in it the source of their ultimate downfall. Between them and an ultimate clash with the free society of this country there stands now nothing but the defense of Great Britain. The die is cast.

The British are going to wait for the outcome of the chance they have taken they are not going to turn soft under pressure which is perhaps the greatest surprise Adolf the Conqueror has had since he began his amazingly successful adventures. Germany is going to have to wipe Great Britain off the map or be wiped off itself in event of failure. Nothing in the tone of official statements nothing in what is known of the spirit of the people suggests that the Battle of Britain will end short of extermination. That is the die Hitler has cast in 1940.

The tax rates announced in Britain Tuesday amounting to almost complete confiscation of wealth show the spirit of the British. The spirit of the Germans has been shown already in their years of patient sacrifice to give one man the power to decide their fate for the next thousand years. This is total warfare—the total resources of nations mobilized for a climactic clash to produce the total ruin of the weaker. Only leadership bereft of reason could stage such a debacle. The United States awaits the outcome with certain assurance that its own preparations for security will make it the strongest nation on earth when the two remaining European powers have exhausted each other in a battle to the death.

Faith Rewarded

JOHN N. GARNER leaving Washington for Uvalde in years past has meant more than one thing—that congress was ready to adjourn that Garner thought congress should adjourn that congress had adjourned that Garner was tired of the way things were going in Washington.

It never meant before that John N. of the famous eyebrows was leaving politics, which is what it seems to mean this time. At Chicago as recently in Washington the vice president was treated like a distant relation on public relief. He was treated in fact like James A. Farley Carter Glass, Harry F. Byrd William B. Bankhead and the rest of the Jeffersonian well-take-ours-straight Democrats. While this is largely a party matter—something for Democrats to worry about—the public must be conscious that faith which is the backbone of political organizations, is being rewarded on the majority side with a kick in the pants. This may not keep Messrs. Garner Farley et al from professing undying loyalty to the kickers but it's raising hob with spectators.

Homemade Farm Relief

THE Republicans and Democrats are welcome to this inside tip on farm relief. It comes to this department via a man who knows the man to whom a farmer said:

"Yup brother farming's a dandy way to keep from getting soft and rich. I don't know how I'd stand it if I didn't have a good hired man.

"Sure I keep a hired man. Matter of fact he's the only thing keeps the place going. The way it works out I hire him one year and come the end of the year I owe him the price of the farm in wages. I can't pay so I give him the farm. Then the next year he hires me and come the end of the year he owes me the farm. Been doing it that way for years. I own the farm this year."

PROOF.

We'll have a pretty good democracy when the people take as much interest in who is to be chosen as their national manager as they are in who is going to direct their local ball club—Detroit Free Press.

News Behind the News

Much Bigger Federal Budgets Controlled Production Among Prospects for U. S.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON July 25—National economic taxpayinds yet undreamed lie ahead of the national defense commission as it examining the country. At least they appear to be understood in the public mind but the far-signed government economists associated with the commission are daily giving through to prospects that seem fantastic. They see the present road leading eventually to a stronger government directed national life controlled production a high geared government spending economy beyond the billions astronomical magnation of the New Deal spenders themselves and eventual budget of perhaps 20 to 25 billions a year nearly double its largest new deal size.

Paul Mallon

They figure this way.

Of the 14 000 000 000 Mr. Roosevelt is proposing for national defense about 5 to 6 billions will be spent this fiscal year before next July 1. This will have the economic impetus of 9 to 12 billions. The letting of contracts for sums larger than the actual expenditure naturally will start purchases of raw materials and buying preparations which will stimulate the country's economic condition greater than ever before.

Controlled Production

As a result the national income which was 70 000 000 000 in 1939 is likely to reach 74 billions this year and soar above 80 billions for 1941. This increase in purchasing power the economists believe will cause a tremendous new demand for consumer goods like autos refrigerators radios washing machines clothing—the implements of the peoples daily lives—but the necessities of defense for the production of tanks airplanes guns textiles will require so much of the production capacity of some of these consumers goods plants that a government rationed production system is likely to become necessary. They conclude so many people will want so many more automobiles that if the automobile manufacturers attempt to satisfy the demand the motor industry will not be able to turn out the tanks.

The automobile people feared just exactly this when the program was first laid and dashed down to Washington privately to consult with their ex colleague William Knudsen production commissioner. They were assured the defense program would be planned in the beginning so as to prevent such a situation from arising and they went back to Detroit satisfied. But if they had consulted some of the economists around the commission they would have left with less confidence.

The economists believe a bottleneck cannot be avoided. What they foresee is the government stepping in to tell individual railroads and factories how much of their production can be devoted to public consumption and what portion to national defense.

More Taxes Ahead

Not a few tax experts have been led by the official powers to agree. There have already been rumors (only flatly denied by the treasury) that the tremendous increase in corporate taxes already enacted by this congress will be doubled as soon as the election is over. The usual reasoning of the economists sends substantial confirmation to this expectation. If people are unable to spend their money for consumers goods which compete with national defense production is figured they will tend to spend it for non-competitive consumers goods (such as amusements luxuries feminine accessories) to such an extent that eventually that is after ten years or so if the defense program is continuing the government will have to step in and regulate the economy of those industries also as to price use of raw materials.

Rising Spiral

The rising spiral of government expenditures which they conjure from current economic statistics might eventually reach one of the foremost government economists privately says the aforementioned figure of 20 to 25 billions. He is figuring on a German victory and sharp trade competition from a German dominated Europe which will require from us not only increasing sums for larger fighting fleets and continuously more armament but heavy government subsidies for the maintenance of our foreign trade in competition with such a system.

Today and Tomorrow

Both Presidential Candidates Urged To Lay Facts of Defense Problem Before People.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE paramount question is how soon if ever Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie or both will begin to tell the people the truth about the national defense. The people are not being told the truth. They are being dazzled and diverted by grandiose authorizations appropriations contracts plans promises and commitments. These are the easy things to which politicians invariably resort when they lack the resolution to do the hard and necessary things. Placed as we are in this country today, the supreme problem in foreign policy is to clarify and define the relationship of the United States to the British commonwealth and to British sea power the subject is treated by the politicians of both parties as unmentionable. Internally the supreme problem of national defense is to increase rapidly the rate of industrial production in the munitions industries since this cannot be done without inconvenience to every one and without interfering with the vested interests of business men trades unions and consumers the subject is regarded by the politicians as untouchable.

Walter Lippmann

Because we are drifting aimlessly and failing to define our foreign policy or seriously to organize the national defense we are deceiving ourselves most dangerously by a series of paper schemes in which the second scheme covers up the defect of the first and the third scheme covers up the defect of the second.

The First Scheme

The underlying paper scheme, our first and fundamental departure from the reality of America's vital interests was the neutrality law. Even as amended last autumn the law prevented the United States from acting to preserve in friendly hands the naval control of our two ocean frontiers. The neutrality law committed us to the immense gamble and the immeasurable risk of allowing British and the French sea power to be destroyed and of having therefore to let ourselves be isolated and compelled to defend ourselves in two oceans with one navy.

The conquest of France and the threat of the conquest of Britain tore a hole in the paper scheme of the neutrality law. The country reacted immediately. Thereupon congress and the administration pasted another piece of paper over the hole. They authorized another navy. But the whole of the paper navy was that it could not be constructed in less than four or five years, and that was an optimistic estimate. So over this hole in the scheme for a paper navy another piece of paper has had to be pasted. A great army is to be authorized in order that we may be able to defend by land and air forces those vital positions in this hemisphere which the Navy alone, should Britain fall is now unable to defend. But the great hole in this scheme for a paper army is that while a million men can be conscripted and given rudimentary drill, they cannot be equipped with modern weapons much before 1942 1943.

Not Geared for Production

For American industry and American labor are not now geared to produce these weapons rapidly, nor are serious and effective measures being discussed publicly much less put into effect to begin producing these weapons rapidly. Paper contracts are being signed. But the real task of putting the production of munitions ahead of everything else ahead of private profit, private preferences ahead of all peace time reforms and all peacetime restrictions has not begun. And neither political party and neither candidate has as yet dared to go to the people and tell them truthfully what sacrifices they must make if they are to translate any of these paper schemes into a dependable armed force.

The grim truth about the national defense is that by failing to use our whole diplomatic and economic power to insure ourselves against the conquest and collapse of the British Empire we are compelled to authorize another Navy which cannot be built before it may be needed to authorize a great Army which cannot be equipped before it may be needed and to make pledges and commitments to our neighbors in this hemisphere which may no be valid if we lack the Navy and the Army to execute the pledges. And then because the politicians are afraid to tell the people the truth they are organizing the productive capacity of the country as if they had years of leisure ahead of them and as if no stringent measures were really necessary.

Married Women's Jobs

Campaign Launched To Defend Wives Right To Work.

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer

SEVENTY thousand women—members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs — have launched a campaign to prevent discrimination against married women workers.

Under the direction of Dr. Minnie L. Massett they are peppering the country with circulars making contacts with congressmen to present their side of the case and working overtime to educate their members on the subject.

They have been spurred into increasingly energetic action this year by the fact that since January 1939 legislatures of 26 states have introduced bills aimed at prohibiting the employment of married women in state or private enterprise. (The bills failed to pass but they put the federation on guard for a spirited defense of the married women's right to work.)

Need the Money

Here are some of the federation's arguments based on a survey of a crosssection of its membership made public recently by Dr. Ruth Shallcross director of the federation's research department.

The questionnaires revealed that the federation's married members work not to satisfy a whim but because they need money to support parents or relatives to improve their standards of living to educate children get out of debt or to save for their old age. Others work because their husbands lost their jobs, became ill or wanted their help in his business.

One of the federation's strongest defenses of the married woman's right to work is its contention that by working they have more money to spend on household equipment electrical appliances and clothes and thus increase business.

Spread Employment

Here is what the report has to say about the way the married woman worker spends her money: 'Many of the married members began working during the depression to maintain their homes when otherwise it would have been necessary to live on a part of the husband's earnings. By maintaining their homes they purchase repairs and household equipment on a larger degree than would otherwise have been the case. By working they relieved the unemployment where competition is keen. They keep the family income at a level where household loan saving equipment could be purchased. To prevent these women from maintaining their standard of living would have resulted mostly in equalizing property or making subsistence help for the unemployed. This would have curtailed the purchasing power for all products except bare necessities.

The report states that the average married woman worker who is a federation member has no children under sixteen; is between forty and forty nine years old started work because of the depression lives in her own home and earns some $300 less annually than the unmarried working women because she is not so well trained and has not worked for so long.

NEW YORK—Does your watch have summer complaint? Does it stop often or give to fured whirs and then fold up?

Henry B. Fried of the Horological Society of New York Inc. an organization of watchmakers knows about that.

He blames the whole difficulty on the mainspring. It may bind because of sudden changes in temperature.

Also he says electrical storms seem to exert a phenomenal influence on the sulphur spots in high grade mainsprings.

Summer time is for healthier watches.

Don't wear your watch at the beach.

Wind it only once a day preferably in the morning.

Evangelist To View Hitler According to Bible.

Children who have been in the daily afternoon Bible classes will be on the platform and take part in the service tonight at 7:45 at the Central Ohio Young People's Fellowship club Bible conference at the Chautauqua pavilion. The evangelist, Rev. Clifford Hollifield of Fort Wayne, Ind., will preach on "Can Hitler Win the War According to the Bible?"

Mrs. Hollifield and Bert Wilhoit, also of Fort Wayne, will be in charge of music.

Friday there will be no afternoon service but the children's service will be held as usual at 1:30 p. m. in charge of Mr. Wilhoit. At night Rev. Hollifield will tell his life story in a sermon on "From News Stand to the Pulpit."

The evangelist preached last night on "The Joy Beyond the Cross." He spoke in part as follows:

God never trusts until He tries and tests. He will always bless the tenacious desire to hold on. You will never know the joy of success until you have borne the burdens and sorrows. Let us take a stand for Jesus Christ in the hard place. Let people know where we stand. If you don't believe in the pre-incarnation of Christ you aren't a Christian. The joy of the Cross was the joy of saving you and me from our sins. The joy of finding one who is lost is greater than holding the ninety and nine. The heart is empty unless He for Whom it was built is here."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

The Chief's Censure of Madge and Lillian Ends in Praise for their Courage.

"THAT GOES for you, too," Harry Underwood told Lillian as he kissed her. "The Dicky-bird and I ought to fill you up with red pepper, hang your heads downward from a beam and slipper you, the way Kipling's Oriental potentate disciplined his grandmother. But you're such thundering good scouts, even if you are the world's champion fools, that we have to buss you instead of beating you. But don't you pull this sort of stunt again. Our patience may wear out sometime."

"We'll be good," Lillian said meekly, and her big husband grinned down at her.

"You mean you'll take chances on that," he said, "but we haven't time to discuss that now. The Chief wants us over in his room in ten minutes—we have given him the emeralds, and he's now occupied with them, so we'll just have time to listen to the saga of your adventure."

"You must know it already from the Dicky-bird," she told him.

"Not so fast!" he admonished her. "He's told me everything he knows, but he only began from the time he heard your catbird call, and, parting the bushes, came upon the tableau of you two holding Leslie at pistol's point. And Jim told us about your taking his coats and caps. But we want the 'in-between' stuff, every syllable, for you can bet the Chief will want to hear all about it."

The Chief Will Be Angry

A little shiver rippled over me, for I knew my father's most certain disapproval of our action.

"Does he have to know?" I faltered.

"Try to keep it from him," Dicky said. "Better come clean, then if we can soften it up a bit, we will."

"There isn't much to tell that you don't know," I said.

"Please spill that little quickly," Dicky admonished me, and I told him of our arrival at the rendezvous first of all, of our entering the thicket after backing the station wagon into the winding wood path, of Leslie's coming to our hiding place without seeing us, and then of our smearing our faces and pretending to be rough marauders as we held Leslie motionless and speechless at pistol's point until Dicky came along and took matters over for us.

There was a second's silence when I had finished. Then Dicky patted my shoulder.

"Not so bad, eh! Harry?" he asked, and there was a distinct note of pride in his voice.

"We ought to kill 'em," Harry answered, "but they sure pulled some trick, and incidentally saved the day. Leslie evidently had sensed Watson was impersonating Mary. The Chief had counted on his agreement to keep away if the Chief did, or did he?"

"Not too much," Dicky answered, "or he wouldn't have had that extra gang of men in ambush. As it is, everything is in the Chief's hands. He has just one objective now, the capture of Leslie and every one of his gang."

"I wouldn't call that a minor operation," Lillian murmured.

"It's some job," her husband agreed, "but the Chief will be able to handle it. And now, let's cut along to his room. The ten minutes will be up by the time we get there."

Censure—and Praise

When we reached my father's room, we found him looking at Queen Olga's famous emerald necklace which was set with smaller diamonds, each of which would have graced a modest betrothal ring.

My father turned and looked at me, at first with so cold and displeased a glance that I quaked, as I always do at his disapproval. Then his lips quirked into a frosty smile, and I knew that I was grudgingly forgiven.

"You have displeased me very much my daughter by your disobedience. You know that I have forbidden you to go into danger during this trouble. But what I have been told of your—escapade—makes me very proud of you and of Lillian—of your resourcefulness and your bravery. I cannot be angry at you. And now, I want your opinion—and Lillian's. How far can Queen Olga's discretion be trusted?"

GERMAN WARNS U. S. NAZIS TO RULE TRADE

Declares Gold Will Cease To Be Currency Basis.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN July 25 — (AP by Radio) — Walter Funk German minister of economics asserted today that it is up to the United States itself to decide whether and to what extent it will trade with Europe after the war but it must abandon the idea it can force its economic terms upon Germany or Europe

Funk in an interview published in Vienna and broadcast by the German radio gave for the first time an authoritative outline of the new economic system which Adolf Hitler plans to impose on the continent

He said there would be no attempt to make Europe entirely self sufficient since certain products always will be lacking in Europe But trade with overseas countries will be on the barter basis

To what extent we shall trade with the United States Funk said is absolutely left in the hands of Americans themselves

If the United States wishes to contribute again to the development of an international economic system it will have to get rid of its false method of trying to make the United States the biggest creditor nation and at the same time the biggest export country in the world '

The United States must abandon the idea that it can force its economic terms upon Germany or Europe For trade with South American countries we do not require North American mediation

Gold prophesied Funk will cease to be the basis of European currencies

SOLIDARITY IN WEST TESTED

Havana Parley at Point To Bring Show on Unity in Americas.

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, July 25 — Representatives of the 21 American republics reached today the climax of their conference on hemisphere defense and economic problems as the deadline for submission of proposals brought a test of the solidarity among these nations

Proposals adhering closely to United States objectives were before committees for study on the three main problems—European colonies in this hemisphere suppression of fifth column activities, and relief for economic systems dislocated by the European war

However the Argentine delegation—center of other delegates fears about lack of unity—worked late into the night on proposals for introduction before the noon deadline

One of these related to European possessions Some delegates thought it might conflict sharply with the collective trusteeship plan supported by the United States and several other countries

These other nations suggestions being worked into an all inclusive convention by a sub committee headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull were understood to contain the basic principles of the trusteeship plan

Argentina's delegation head Leopoldo Melo cautioned the conference Monday against precipitate action on hypothetical dangers

The principal resolution relating to subversive activities presented by the United States calls for action by all American nations to eradicate any fifth column work by foreign diplomatic or consular officials enjoying immunity privileges

MURDER HUNT

might have been shot by some one trying to shake him down but there was nothing to substantiate that

Then some of his patients began coming in and we heard stories that led us to believe he was man of many enemies The leads went in all directions—to Cleveland Youngstown Warren Canton Columbus Mansfield Sandusky and Lorain We're going to run them all down and some day well find the person who can tell us what we want to know

In pector Cross called the slain man's practice a cash on the line proposition worth about $1 200 a month

On this income earned at the small office above a drug store, the physician and his 34 year old wife Ruby lived in a swank cottage near Akron's east reservoir They were not active socially Dr Miller devoting many of his extra hours to becoming an expert rifle shot and to such avocations as painting and photography

Mrs Miller questioned intensively by officers and now free under bond on a suspicious person charge spoke of her slain mate as a 'free spender '

'He would just as soon give five dollars to someone who needed it as put it in the bank she said dismally her eyes still swollen and red from the 20 day ordeal

He was big hearted I can't think of a person No not of a single person who would want to shoot him '

Cross reported a 'slight discrepancy in Mrs Miller's story of the shooting had resulted in use of a lie detector while questioning her but he asserted she was not suspected of being involved

Certain persons who should have heard her screams didn't hear them he said

Once her husband's assistant Mrs Miller married him In 1932 a month after he was divorced by a prominent Akron club woman on grounds of neglect and cruelty He had been in Akron headlines frequently many residents receiving chuckles from his jousts with federal prohibition agents whom he thought too impulsive with firearms During much of the 'dry era Dr Miller's automobiles bore tire covers with the legend "Don't shoot No liquor in this car '

In 1920 the physician resigned from the Summit county medical society in protest against the ouster of a city health officer and later was denied readmission Two years ago he accidentally shot and killed a companion while hunting

A gradutae of Harvard university and fellow student of President Roosevelt Dr Miller occasionally sent to the White House written comments on the state of national affairs He was an outspoken agnostic and although he requested his ashes be strewn by airplane over his boyhood home in Massachusetts, he was buried here at services attended by six persons.

BRITISH REPORT 2,823 LOST ON LANCASTRIA

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 25—Authorized sources said today that 2,823 persons were missing in the sinking of the Cunard liner Lancastria at anchor off St. Nazaire during the evacuation of British troops from France

There were 2 477 known survivors of the 5 300 aboard

Others, however may have saved themselves by swimming or wading ashore, and falling into German hands

The 16,243-ton Lancastria struck by bombs from Nazi planes, took a heavy list which hampered the launching of life boats.

She capsized and sank within half an hour of the attack

SHIP SUNK

vanced by the London Daily Telegraph Quoting the most reliable neutral sources the newspaper said a serious difference of opinion among Hitler's advisers was holding up the projected invasion

Hitler's warplanes nevertheless kept up the bombing of the United Kingdom

Ant aircraft guns chattered again on the southeast coast and the sky was reported alive with aircraft as about 80 German raiders swarmed down to attack a merchant convoy in the English channel British fighting planes quickly sent them fleeing

Help from Rumania

Hitler's need of oil and still more oil to fuel and lubricate his mechanized war machine was pointed only yesterday when the pro Nazi government seized the biggest British oil company in the Balkan kingdom The confiscated oil may now go to Germany

Italians also began to feel the pinch of the British blockade as Mussolini's government decreed still another meatless day—making four vegetarian days a week—and ordered sharp rationing of bread in restaurants

The British people's will to victory appeared in a stronger light than ever today when the $13 868 000 000 budge of Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood—based upon the heaviest taxation in British history—was condemned as timid and inadequate

With one accord the London press clamored for a real war budget despite the fact that Britons already are paying a 42½ per cent income tax

The question of aid for Germany stirred interest with attacks on the party budget

The Financial Times in London declared the British government will want definite assurances from Spain that oil supplies do not go to Germany

U S Blocks Shipment

At the same time the United States by prohibiting the sailing of American tankers bound for Spain placed a virtual embargo on such shipments which might reach Germany and Italy it was reported in Washington

This heightening of the pace of economic warfare was accompanied by an apparent slackening-off in actual warfare Not a single Nazi bomber appeared over Britain last night—only the second time this has happened since June 18 but this morning in English mercant convoy in the North sea aided by fighter planes fought off two German raids

American-made dive bombers export models of planes used by the U S navy are being used by German sky raiders in pounding England the British disclosed

The British air ministry said today the American planes apparently were captured by the Nazis from the French

The war struck again yesterday at the Holy Land held under British mandate with a toll of 46 civilian dead and 88 wounded when 10 planes presumably Italian dropped 80 to 100 high explosives into the streets and harbor of the port of Haifa

U S Plane Shot Down

The British reported one of the German-used American planes shot down another riddled with bullets and 11 other German aircraft destroyed in the dawn to-dark duelling over the English coast yesterday

An announcement by Lord Beaverbrook Britain's minister for aircraft production that the United States would approve a production plan to supply England 3 000 planes a month met only partial confirmation last night from defense officials in Washington

They said they agreed to the 3 000 planes a month program beginning early next year if it could be accomplished Present production of planes in the United States is not more than 600 a month partly taken up by home defense demands

The U S state department disclosed American ministers had been called home from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, Baltic nations which have petitioned to be taken into the Soviet Union.

Fear the Argentine delegation might come into sharp conflict with delegates of the 20 other American republics was felt at Havana as the Pan-American conference on hemisphere defense and economy approached the deadline for submission of proposals.

The Argentines worked late into the night on their own suggestions. One of these concerned European possessions in the new world and was said in some quarters to be opposed directly to the [illegible] trusteeship' advocated by the United States and several other nations.

Japanese Leave Little Doubt As To Their Plans

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Japan's new totalitarian government under the powerful leadership of Prince Konoye as premier has left no manner of doubt that it intends to rush its program of expansion and extend its dominations over east Asia while the western powers still are preoccupied with the European war

As I read the Japanese writing on the wall Nippon has made up its mind not to allow itself to be stymied further by the protagonists of the two most powerful western influences in the Orient—America and Great Britain

It appears to me that Japan intends to go as far as possible in establishing hegemony over eastern Asia before the battle of Britain ends Then the western powers particularly England will be faced with a fait accompli which will be difficult to upset

Statements Give Clues

This historic hardening of policy has been advertised in naively open statements by members of cabinet These officials have indicated that Japan intends to cooperate more fully with the Berlin-Rome axis and to employ in diplomacy the Hitlerian blitzkrieg methods which they profess to admire

Now talkativeness isn't one of the failings of Japanese cabinet ministers When they do start to talk and in such strong terms my inquisitive nature sets me to searching for more hidden meaning In the present instance I am inclined to believe that this advertising is intended largely as a warning to America and Britain to keep hands off

Probably Japan does indeed intend closer cooperation with Germany and Italy But of this I am sure—the last thing that Tokyo wants to do is to give Germany a chance to get a strong foothold in the Orient Certainly Japan has no intention of letting the Nazis or Italians profit by taking over possessions of defeated nations such as the immensely rich Dutch East Indies and French Indo-China

Japanese Action Likely

If the European war drags on it wouldn't be surprising to see Japan take control of the colonies mentioned or even annex them

All in all it seems to me that Japan intends to play so far as possible a lone game in enforcing the Asiatic Monroe doctrine

She apparently believes that effective interference from either America or Britain won't be possible and plans to proceed on that basis

3,000 a Month Pledged for War Needs.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 25—Secretary Morgenthau said today the United States had pledged every facility to enable the British to buy 3 000 military airplanes a month in this country in addition to huge orders previously placed

Confirming an announcement in London by Lord Beaverbrook, the treasury head said that the new arrangement was in addition to all previous orders, and would require construction of new factories

The British have promised to pay for the erection of the new factories as well as to buy their output Morgenthau added

The secretary asserted that William S Knudsen production member of the defense commission had agreed to undertake to work out the details.

He said the new factories involved in the program would give the United States capacity to build far in excess of 50 000 planes a year set by President Roosevelt as a goal in his May 16 defense message He declined to estimate the exact capacity planned

Saying that the British "seem to have plenty of money" Morgenthau said that the sums involved are colossal.'

Blitzkrieg on Britain Dreamed Years Ago

By The Associated Press

Parachute troops, air armadas and all the other innovations of the war in Europe really aren't new at all. They were conceived in the nineteenth century by imaginative artists.

The sketch at the right appeared in the German magazine Ueber Land Und Meer in 1895. The artist pictured hordes of parachute troops wearing wing-like contrivances. He saw, too, that anti-aircraft guns would be developed. The artist was specific in his location, the attacked area representing an English port.

Much earlier — in 1804 — Napoleon I had a plan for invading England. The idea is presented in the sketch below — from Paris und London 1804. It was Napoleon's theory that if he could master the English channel for 24 hours, he could transport 150,000 men to England in flat bottomed scows. One suggested plan for attack included a tunnel under the channel through which soldiers would march.

Fancy in 1895, reality today

Napoleon went Hitler one better. He planned a tunnel, too.

New York and California Lead All States in Recruits for Air Force

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex., July 25—As the army air corps launches itself on a pilot training program which has been without precedent in this country since World war days, a close check is being kept on the geographical distribution of students for an index to sectional and state interest in flying.

On the interest generated in air corps careers will depend the success of the scheme whereby the army will turn out 7,000 qualified pilots a year as part of the war rearmament drive.

California and New York led in the number of cadets who entered training at the nine primary schools scattered throughout the United States known as "Little Randolphs" in May. About Aug 1 the graduates of those schools will arrive here for basic training.

California Leads

In the class California has 41 men in the primary schools New York 39 Illinois 35 Texas 33 Oklahoma 25 Washington State 24 Oregon 23 Massachusetts 21 and Pennsylvania 19. These are the top-ranking states but every state is represented in the enrollments.

Chicago with 15 and Seattle with 13 are the leading cities.

The fields administration accounts for the large Texas enrollment of course by the presence of the training center here. California's total is attributed to the traditional high interest which the residents of that state have in flying.

A good enrollment from New York is expected with each class because of its population but just why Oklahoma and Washington should out rank in numbers a populous state like Pennsylvania has not been determined.

The students average age is just above 23. Apparently their five age height does not matter because the little fellows just inside the limit of 5 feet 4 inches in height become pilots equally as good as the 6 footers.

Mostly College Men

Many of the professions are represented law architecture medicine chemical and aeronautical engineering and even animal husbandry. A good many of the students are graduates of college reserve officers training corps units who have served with field artillery or infantry commissions under regular army officers within the provisions of the Thomason act.

Some have no formal college education, but have passed the two years of college entrance requirement by taking examinations covering the necessary subjects. They rub shoulders with Rose Bowl heroes and enlisted men who have made the grade.

A few months ago during a visit to the basic field here of Fielding (Hurry Up) Yost of Michigan a group of flying cadets who were former football stars was assembled. Yost looked them all over with a practiced eye.

If I had this bunch he finally remarked I could win anybody's football title.

Determined to make military

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

YESTERDAY: Gerald takes Kay and Julia to dinner "to do a spot of detecting." They discuss Felicia's nearly blind, six-year-old niece who visited her in June. Privately, Gerald nominates Felicia for suspect number one.

'Fringy'

"MY cherce is Chapisin Henry," Julia said elegantly. "He's such a dear little dumpling, the kind that always murders his wife in the bathtub and buries her in the back yard. Of course, he's a bachelor——"

"Wait!" I interrupted. "I think you've got something there. Did you hear Sandra say she had known him in Texas? He's probably secretly in love with her and simply follows her around disposing of all his rivals—the cave-man lover, you know."

Julia was giving me an exceedingly dirty look, and for a minute I couldn't think why, until Gerald observed innocently:

"But wouldn't you think it would have been Jeff instead of Ivan? Do you suppose he made a mistake in the dark?"

"Oh, Jeff's probably next on the list," I said airily, to cover my slip. "Maybe a long list, for all you know. You guys better watch your step with Sandra," I added darkly.

Gerald appeared to shudder. "Men are such brutes, my dear. But I'm sure I don't know why you're warning me." He put a hand to the back of his head and ran a finger through its closely cut sandy stubble. "Look, girls, I'm thinking of letting my hair grow—or do you like it better the way I'm wearing it?"

Julia put her head on one side. "A cluster of curls on top would suit your heart-shaped face," she said judicially. "On the other hand, Geraldine, your neck is a little long——"

"Column of alabaster," he said, smirking. "Silly, isn't it? But that's what they tell me."

"My cherce is a very phony young man named Beaufort," I observed sternly. "Just look at him in that mirror trying to make a couple of unsuspecting females fall all. Julia, don't mention your father's invention—you know, the death ray. He's probably in the pay of some foreign power, Julia, that young man is deep."

Gerald leaned forward and scrutinized his reflection anxiously.

"I'll wager you say that to all the girls," he complained, straightening his tie. But I had not missed the sudden sharp look from under those absurd eyelashes. For an instant a breath of fear dissipated the rosy cloud of contentment around me.

"And when does he drift in?" I babbled on, hoping he did not know I had seen that sharp look. "The day—the very day, mind you, that the chaplain was attacked. And how does he account for himself? He says, mind you, that he's a boot salesman. Now I ask you, Julia, is that likely? Is it plausible? Have you seen him sell a boot? I haven't."

"To think you've been holding that against me!" Gerald marveled. "Tomorrow as ever was you shall come to my humble showroom, you shall see the whole complicated scientific procedure—nay, you shall even order a pair for those delectable extremities which I have been unable to avoid noticing. I, Gerald Beaufort in person, shall serve you. That is a chore I never delegate to a subordinate. It's always a pleasure the ladies to measure——"

"Ersters," breathed Julia fervently.

Hard-Faced Man

Gerald inserted his imaginary monocle and blinked at her.

"Have I been overlooking something?" he asked hopefully. I "always thought the word was neris."

"No, no! You misunderstand me. I mean ersters, actually, in the flesh. Don't you see the waiter approaching?"

"Is that all you see?" I asked dreamily. "I see approaching, from the opposite direction, a grim-visaged male who eats with his knife and sleeps in his clothes. Hold your breath Julia, I think we're about to became a foursome."

It was Monday night. Fieldstone Inn was not crowded. Facing the door, I had noticed this solitary diner arrive and seat himself across the room from us—a hard-faced but not unattractive man in his late thirties, with the eyes of one who had seen much and never expected to be surprised again. Those eyes had inspected me without perceptible change, had lingered for a moment on Julia's half-averted face, and traveled on to Gerald's profile. Now he was coming toward us.

A hand descended on Gerald's shoulder.

"Fancy meeting you here," drawled a husky voice, and I thought I detected a gleam of lazy triumph in the imperturbable eyes.

Gerald looked up, his face as blank as a mask.

"Frightfully sorry, old chap," he said pleasantly. "Never saw you before in my life. Dare say it was a couple of other fellows."

"Not with those eyelashes," the man said with a malevolent grin. "Come on, Fringy, give."

"Ah! These eyelashes? Now that's where you're wrong! One dollar a set—you can have them yourself, old fellow, and no end of an improvement, if you don't mind my saying so. Said to sharpen the eyesight, too. Look—tell you what I'll do. Give you the address."

He whipped a tiny flat notebook and a pencil from his breast pocket and scribbled briefly, tore off the sheet and pressed it into the stranger's hand.

"Just say Geraldine sent you. No, no—don't thank me! Only too glad to spread a little beauty in a bleak world——"

The stranger glanced briefly at the paper he held and his face closed like a trap.

"O.K., Geraldine, do as much for you sometime. Sorry I dropped the brick. I see now you're not the guy. It's those eyelashes—better cut them, they'll get you into trouble one day."

Gerald grinned. "Just what I was telling the girls," he said innocently. He fanned a hand vaguely at the man, a gesture that seemed to mean "Scram!" At least the stranger departed. He went back to his table, to his waiting plate, and concentrated on feeding but not with his knife. As far as I could see thereafter, his gaze did not drift our way.

"Now that, Geraldine, was downright piggish," Julia protested. "Anyone with half a wit could see the poor fellow was lonesome, and you sitting here smugly with two glamour girls. You might at least have pretended to know him."

"I'm surprised at you, Julia. My grandmother," he added virtuously, "made me promise never to take up with strange men."

Strange? I lowered my eyes to my plate so that he would not see the disbelief in them. I felt a little sick.

Delicate Mission

Julia and Gerald began to wrangle amiably over the wisdom of consuming the first oysters of the season in month without an r, but she disposed of the whole question.

"It's all right. We put the r in the ersters, which makes it perfectly safe," she pronounced, and popped one calmly into her mouth.

It was not until we had finished our meal and Gerald had lavishly ordered a Courvoisier brandy that he returned to the subject of Adam's commission.

"I've always wanted to do a spot of detecting," he confessed cheerfully, swirling the amber fluid in its tiny glass. "Kay, here, is a very discerning young person—very discerning indeed. Yes, I think I may say that I am deep; though not everyone, mind you, would have the wit or the courage to probe beneath my light and airy persiflage to the dark and secret recesses of the man's mysterious mind. Adam is discerning, too. He saw at once that I was unusual," he continued modestly. "That, I am sure, is why he trusted me to execute this delicate mission."

He paused impressively.

"What delicate mission?" demanded Julia impatiently. "The trouble with you, Geraldine, you have Saint Vitus dance of the vocal chords—they're always in motion but they don't get you anywhere."

Gerald looked at her coldly.

Harold Brooks of Quincy, Mass., demonstrates his firm's latest innovation, a bombproof air raid shelter, made to hold six persons. Built of armor plate steel and set on a concrete base six inches thick, nothing but a direct hit from a bomb can wreck it, according to the builders. Miriam Soderback and Dorothy Stetson are the girls giving the shelter a tryout.

Tribe Wins 5th Straight Over A's, 7-6; Reds Beat Dodgers Again, 6-

Roy Weatherly Paces Indian Attack; Detroit Beats Nats; Yanks Lose.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., July 25 — A fifth straight victory for the Cleveland Indians made their "slump" on the recent eastern tour look today like just a few bad breaks

The Tribe has bounced back after losing six in a row to Washington and New York, and the fans know it only as a club that is hitting the pennant trail hard

Seeking to sweep the series with the Philadelphia Athletics, the Indians entered the final game with Mel Harder on pitching duty for them. Although credited with six victories, he has yet to pitch a complete game this season. He faced Lee (Buck) Ross who has defeated the Indians twice in three starts

Cleveland's pennant chances wavered for a time yesterday as Bob Feller was hit on the jaw by a thrown ball. An examination revealed only a bruise and a couple of chipped teeth however and he would have been ready for service yesterday in a pinch. He was struck by a ball heaved by Keith Monroe a sandlotter working out with the Tribe

Roy Weatherly paced the Tribe's attack with a two run homer in the third inning as the club won its fifth straight by a 7 to 6 victory over Philadelphia to remain a half game back of the first place Detroit Tigers

Al Smith helped win his own game by getting three hits in as many times at bat and scoring three runs. Nate Andrews succeeded him in the sixth but pitched to only two men both of them hitting safely. Harry Feldstat took over then and held the As in check.

The Mackmen collected a total of 12 hits off the three Tribesmen while Cleveland reached Chubby Dean Herman Besse and Bill Beckman for 14 safe blows.

The Cincinnati Reds look better day by day and twice as good by night.

As they trounced the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-3 last night for Bucky Walters' 15th victory this season fans sat back and told their neighbors they were looking at the next world champions.

That was how smoothly the Redlegs disposed of the next best team in the National league.

They never made a fielding error during the entire three-game series which they swept with comparative ease to inflate their first place margin to eight full games.

The Reds now have taken seven of their last eight games against the Dodgers have won 17 of the last 19 against all comers and their last six in a row.

Walters At Best

Walters was at the peak of his form in the night game that drew 30,000 paying patrons to Ebbets field, but he never had to bear down.

In the only other National league game the Boston Bees beat the Chicago Cubs 4-3 with Carvell Rowell's triple knocking in the deciding run.

The American league field has narrowed practically to two teams —Detroit and Cleveland.

Both won yesterday as the junior circuit came up with one of the wildest days in its history.

The Tigers kept half a game in front by a 7-5 decision over the Washington Senators that was credited to Fred Hutchinson their $70,000 rookie. With Hank Greenberg hitting his 18th homer and Pinky Higgins his seventh Detroit acquired a 7-0 lead only to give back five of it in the sixth and seventh innings. It took some fine relief hurling by Al Benton to pull through the Tigers.

The Indians squeezed past the Philadelphia Athletics 7-6 with Roy Weatherly's two-run homer providing the principal impetus and Lefty Al Smith getting credit for his tenth victory although he lasted only until the sixth.

The rampaging Chicago White Sox rolled up 20 hits in beating the Boston Red Sox 12-10 for their sixth successive triumph.

The worst debacle of all however, was at St. Louis where the Browns ripped open the world champion New York Yankees 14-12 after the Yanks had tallied six runs in the first frame. The Yanks got four homers including one by Bill Dickey with the bases loaded and another by Joe DiMaggio that extended his hitting streak to 17 games.

But the Browns kept digging away for 17 hits off six New York pitchers took a 12-10 lead in the seventh and after the Yanks tied the score in the ninth Walter Judnich hit a homer with one on in the last half of the inning to win.

Altogether the four games in the American league brought into action 30 pitchers who gave up 111 hits and 73 runs.

All's Quiet in Indians' Camp Again —And So Is Big Chief Oscar Vitt

By RAY BLOSSER
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND—Oscar Vitt has become a model of verbal temperance, but the Cleveland Indians front office has made no move to dispel the impression that he'll be hunting for another job soon.

Some baseball observers calculate that talkative Oscar, target of a recent player rebellion will be given his walking papers the end of this season even if he pilots the Tribe to its first American league flag in 20 years.

The Indians still boot away games—but outwardly it doesn't bother Vitt. Oscar the nervous has become Oscar the iron man. It all came about because a player delegation complained to President Al a Bradley that Oscar had become the terrible-tongued Mr. Vitt, the jumpy devil of the dugout, and was making them jittery with frequent jibes about their ball-playing talents.

Players Make Report

Then just about the entire squad signed a statement taking it all back. Things sounded calm until word leaked out that a three player delegation called at Bradley's office and made another report.

What they said wasn't made known but at least one of the original complainants, Outfielder Ben Chapman says it's all right with him if Bradley keeps Vitt.

"Since we went down to that meeting Oscar not only has given us no reason to complain, but he has proven to everyone that he can take it," Chapman declares. "I've told him to his face that if he always had acted the way he's acting now the so-called rebellion never would have happened. I haven't a thing against him."

Asked if he believed he expressed the sentiments of his fellow-rebels Chapman said: "Well I hope so. But of course I don't know what's in anyone's mind but my own."

The 56-year-old Bradley is almost ominously quiet. What, he was asked, is the present status?

"I thought it was a thing of the past," he replies.

What did the three-player delegation tell him? That Vitt was doing better?

"Anything the players tell me is in confidence. I'm not going to be quoted on anything one way or another pertaining to that situation."

Note: If you know the answer Oscar probably would appreciate getting in on the secret.

Once vociferous Mr. Vitt . . .

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 25—Gene (Junior) Thompson, the Reds' pitcher is on crutches as a result of that squabble with the Dodgers Tuesday night and will be out for about 10 days. Carl Snavely won additional honors for Cornell by the manner in which he conducted that grid coaching school at Utah State. They say the Washington Redskins have 90,000 frogskins in the bank the result of selling 10,000 tickets.

Doug Dean of the Buford (Ga.) team has hit safely in 58 consecutive games and at last reports was still going strong. . . . And Bobby Lawrence of the Dekalb (Ga.) sandlotters has flung himself into the amateur hall of fame by winning five games in sixth days in an amateur tournament—if the scouts don't look this kid over they're crazy.

Here's an oddity about the Dodgers and Reds who are battling for the National league lead. Last year the Reds used eight guys in left field. So far this year the Brooks have used nine in right. Also Atley Donald and Steve Sundra who won 24 games for the Yanks in 1938 have won a grand total of two this season. What's the matter with the Yanks eh? Well there's two reasons.

Today's Guest Star

Tom Anderson Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal U. of Tennessee footballers who got large jolts out of being photographed hugging movie stars and starlets will have the edge taken off their fond memories when they hear the Hollywood cuties have been posed embracing and osculating Maurice Tillett (The Angel).

This department is glad to see the all-star teams giving the small college players a break in their annual tussle with the pros. For instance Bulldog Turner of Hardin-Simmons likely will win a starting berth at center with the western team while the east already has picked Sam Hammerstrom Union college fullback for its squad.

Don't be surprised if the main fame to the Di Maggio name develops in the Pittsburgh branch of the family this year. Up to a week ago brother Vince had swatted homers in seven National league orchards a far greater range than that of any other National league slugger.

Mel Ott Day?

Around town they're getting up a day for Mel Ott who's been one of the Giant stars for more years than Mel would like us to print. We are 100 per cent for the idea but think the sponsors would do better to hold the ceremonies at night. In other words:

We think that Master Melvin Ott
(Who currently is very hot)
Should have his day beneath the watts
For that is when he really swats.

That Stopped Him

Recently Sonny Jones sports editor of the Tallahassee (Fla.) Democrat severely panned an umpire in the Georgia-Florida league. Next day the umps got tough and told Sonny: "If I wasn't an umpire I'd bust you one." To which Sonny quipped: "Well you're no umpire so go right ahead."

Stimits and Furgol To Meet in 3rd Round.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 25 — Two par-busting youths who broke all qualifying records for amateur competition match strokes today over the long Rackham Municipal course in the third round of the National Public Links golf championships.

The two — Worth Stimits Jr., a Colorado college senior and Edward J. Furgol, 22-year-old Utica, N. Y., metal polisher—shared medalist honors with a record breaking qualifying score of 136.

They were among the survivors of a hectic day of timing in which 40 ex-champions fell by the wayside in the first round and another went out in the second.

Defending champion Andy Szwedko of Pittsburgh was the first to go falling before William Bubis of Chicago 3 and 2 in the day's biggest upset.

The other former champions who failed were David A. Wynne of Atlanta 1934 winner who lost 1 up to William Doll of Louisville, Ky. when Doll dropped a 35 foot putt on the final green; and Carl Kaufmann of Pittsburgh 1927-28-29 titleholder. Today's 36-hole rounds will reduce the field to four. Semi-finals tomorrow and finals Saturday will be 36 holes.

RED BIRDS LOSE BUT CLING TO THIRD PLACE

Columbus Bows to Kansas City By Score of 11 to 5

The Columbus Red Birds were doing very well by themselves in third place ambitions in the American Association until they encountered that well known Kansas City wrecking crew.

They lost their third straight to the league leading Blues yesterday 11 to 5. Thanks to some coppers on from St. Paul however they still were riding in third position today a game in front of Louisville which lost to the Saints 7 to 3.

At Milwaukee the Brewers and Toledo wound up a sixth place duel with Milwaukee still hanging on to a half game edge. Milwaukee won the opener 12 to 9 but Toledo came back to take the second in 10 innings 4 to 2.

In the other game Minneapolis uncorked six runs in the sixth inning against Indianapolis but the Indians retaliated with seven in the eighth and added another in the ninth to win 8 to 6.
